12-Year-Old Terrorist, Youngest of Current Terror Wave, Stabs Security Guard on Jerusalem Light Rail

By Abra Forman November 10, www.breakingisraelnews.com/53541/

Two stabbing terror attacks took place in Jerusalem within moments of each other on Tuesday. Two of the attackers, who stabbed an Israeli security guard at a light rail station in the neighbourhood of Pisgat Ze'ev, were reported to be 12 and 13 years old, breaking the record for the youngest terrorist to have carried out a stabbing attack during the current wave of terror.

According to reports from the Israel Police, the two Palestinian minors accosted the guard and one of them stabbed him in the torso with a large knife, wounding him moderately. The guard managed to shoot one of the attackers, injuring him. Both of the boys were apprehended. Mere moments after the incident, another terrorist attempted a stabbing attack near the Damascus Gate of the Old City. There were no injuries, and the terrorist was shot and neutralized, though his present condition is unknown.

The attacks broke a period of relative peace in the country's capital, which had not seen a terrorist incident since October 30th, when an Arab man stabbed an Israeli man before being shot dead by police. That incident also took place at a light rail station. Previous to that attack, there had been no terror attacks in Jerusalem for nearly two weeks, a reprieve in part due to the deployment of over a thousand reserve guards and police around the city.

Elite IDF Units Capture Hamas Terror Cell, Arrest 24 Terrorists in Joint Operation

By Abra Forman November 10, 2015 www.breakingisraelnews.com/53489/

Early Tuesday morning in a joint operation by the IDF, the Israel Police and the Israel Security Agency (Shin Bet), a Hamas terror cell in the Arab town of Kalkilya in the Judea and Samaria region was raided and 24 Hamas operatives captured.

The raids targeted the local Hamas commander, whose work to renew and bolster Hamas presence in the region included “preparing the ground for terrorist activities”, according to the Shin Bet. Several other senior Hamas officials were also apprehended.

The Shin Bet added that the Hamas operatives were organized, receiving instructions and funding from Hamas headquarters in the Gaza Strip and the Arab state of Qatar.

Security forces raided known addresses of terrorist operatives and arrested 24, several of whom had served jail time for terrorist- and Hamas-related activities in the past. A sum of NIS 35,000, ammunition and a firearm were also seized.

According to the Shin Bet, the terrorist network is well-established in the Judea and Samaria region.”The Hamas infrastructure in Kalkilya is one of Hamas’s oldest in the West Bank,” the agency said, adding, “This episode uncovers the ongoing activities of Hamas headquarters abroad and in the Gaza Strip, as well as the activities of local West Bank infrastructures, to realize their goal of building up their forces, with a view of reaching organizational and military readiness.”

Their ultimate goals, said the agency, are to “carry out terrorist attacks and engage in military activity against Israeli targets.”

An additional 12 suspects were arrested for unorganized terrorist activities and violent disturbances targeting civilians and security forces, bringing the total number of arrests to 36.

Raids took place near the largely Arab towns of Nablus, Bethlehem, Jericho and Jenin. Undercover soldiers from the elite combat unit Duvdevan took part, as well as the Egoz commando unit of the Golan brigade and the Duchifat battalion of the Kfir infantry brigade.

When Will Obama and the West Listen to Hamas?

by Khaled Abu Toameh www.gatestoneinstitute.org/6850/listen-to-hamas

What senior Hamas figure Musa Abu Marzouk and other Hamas leaders are saying is very clear: Even if a Palestinian state is established in the West Bank, Gaza Strip and east Jerusalem, Hamas and other Palestinians will continue to fight until Israel is completely destroyed.

Hamas is openly stating that it will use any future Palestinian state as a launching pad to attack and eliminate Israel.

Hamas is not a small opposition party in the Palestinian territories that can be dismissed as a minor player. Hamas is a large Islamist movement, an offshoot of the Muslim Brotherhood that controls the entire Gaza Strip with its population of 1.8 million Palestinians. Hamas, not much different from Islamic State and Al-Qaeda, has its own security forces, militias, weapons and government institutions.

As President Barack Obama and Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu were talking about the two-state solution during their meeting in the White House yesterday, the Palestinian Hamas movement reiterated its intention to destroy Israel.

Hamas's announcement shows that the two-state solution is not a recipe for peace between Israel and the Palestinians. The announcement also shows that all those who have been talking about a change in Hamas's position towards Israel continue to live in an illusion.

As the Obama-Netanyahu meeting was underway, senior Hamas figure Musa Abu Marzouk issued a statement in which he declared: "We will never negotiate with the Zionist entity and we will never recognize its right to exist. We will continue to resist the Zionist entity until it vanishes, whether they like it or not. The soldiers of the Qassam [Hamas's armed wing] were founded to liberate Palestine, even if some have recognized Israel. We want a state from the (Jordan) river to the [Mediterranean] sea."

Abu Marzouk's remarks came in response to statements made by Palestinian Authority (PA) President Mahmoud Abbas during a meeting with Egyptian journalists in Cairo on Sunday night.

Abu Marzouk's latest threats to eliminate Israel are not only directed against Abbas, but also towards President Obama and those in the international community who continue to support the idea of establishing a Palestinian state alongside Israel. What he and other Hamas leaders are saying is very clear: Even if a Palestinian state is established in the West Bank, Gaza Strip and east Jerusalem, Hamas and other Palestinians will continue to fight until Israel is completely destroyed.

In other words, Hamas is openly stating that it will use any future Palestinian state as a launching pad to attack and eliminate Israel. But Hamas's message has obviously not reached the White House and other Western governments, where decision-makers continue to bury their heads in the sand, refusing to see or hear what some Palestinians are saying.

Hamas and many other Palestinians are completely opposed to a two-state solution: they believe that Israel has no right to exist -- period -- in this part of the world. The only solution they are prepared to accept is one that sees Israel wiped off the face of the earth.

Since its violent takeover of the Gaza Strip in 2007, Hamas and its political allies have turned the coastal area into a semi-independent Islamist emirate.

Since then, Hamas has used the Gaza Strip as a launching pad to attack Israel with tens of thousands of rockets and missiles. And Hamas leaders have repeatedly stated that their chief goal is to "liberate" not only the West Bank and east Jerusalem, but "all of Palestine." In short, Hamas wants to replace Israel with an Islamist empire where non-Muslims would be permitted to live as a minority.

Hamas considers all Jews as "settlers" and "colonialists" who live in "settlements" such as Beersheba, Rishon Lezion, Ashdod and Bat Yam. Hamas does not differentiate between a Jew living in Ma'aleh Adumim or Gush Etzion (on the West Bank) and Tel Aviv, Haifa and Ramat Gan. That is why the Hamas media and leaders refer to Beersheba and Ra'anana, well within the "pre-1967 borders," as "occupied" cities.

The Obama Administration and Western governments can talk as much as they like about the two-state solution. But so long as they refuse to listen to what Hamas and other Palestinians are saying, they will continue to engage in self-deception and hallucination. Even if President Abbas agrees to a Palestinian state on the pre-1967 lines, he will never be able to persuade Hamas, Islamic Jihad and many other Palestinians to recognize Israel's right to exist.

Under the current circumstances, where Hamas and other Palestinians continue to dream about the destruction of Israel, any talk about a two-state solution is nothing but a joke.

The Obama Administration and the rest of the international community also need to understand that the two-state solution has already been realized. In the end, the Palestinians got two states of their own: one in the Gaza Strip and another in the West Bank. The one in the Gaza Strip is run by folks are not much different from Islamic State and Al-Qaeda, while that in the West Bank is controlled by a president who has entered the 11th year of his four-year-term in office and as such is not even seen by his people as a "rightful" leader. This is a reality that the world, including Israel, will have to live with for many years to come.

It is time for the world to stop listening only to President Abbas and Saeb Erekat, and start paying attention to what many other Palestinians such as Hamas are saying, day and night, regarding their commitment to destroy Israel.

US-led bombing campaign in Syria heats up

By: ICEJ News Mon, 09 Nov

Sheik Hassan Nasrallah, leader of the Lebanese Shi'ite terror militia Hezbollah, gave a speech Friday applauding the recent spike in Palestinian terrorist attacks against Israelis and condemning the governments of the Arab countries for failing to do the same. "What is going on now in Palestine reflects a lofty and sublime Jihad spirit," Nasrallah declared, adding "Despite the fact the 'Greater Israel' scheme has been frustrated, the Zionist entity is still powerful and threatens all the region's peoples."

Meanwhile, security forces loyal to Lebanon's secular government arrested three people on Sunday, accusing them of "spying for Israel" and related charges. The government said the three had admitted to taking photos and videos of sensitive sites, adding "several Israeli spy networks have been uncovered in the country's south."

Finally, in neighbouring Syria, reports emerged that the US-led campaign of airstrikes against the Islamic State (IS) terror militia has intensified in recent days after a period of decline through late October. "We are not focussed on numbers of strikes. We are focussed on effects of our strikes," Army Colonel Steve Warren, a US military spokesman in Baghdad, said in an email.
