“All patients in Marseille center were proposed oral hydroxychloroquine sulfate 200 mg, three times per day during ten days.”

“Among hydroxychloroquine-treated patients six patients received azithromycin (500mg on day1 followed by 250mg per day, the next four days) to prevent bacterial super-infection under daily electrocardiogram control.”

“Of note, one patient who was still PCR-positive at day6-post inclusion under hydroxychloroquine treatment only, received azithromycin in addition to hydroxychloroquine at day8-post inclusion and cured her infection at day-9 post infection. In contrast, one of the patients under hydroxychloroquine and azithromycin combination who tested negative at day6 post-inclusion was tested positive at low titer at day8 post-inclusion.”

“At day6 post-inclusion, 100% of patients treated with hydroxychloroquine and azithromycin combination were virologically cured comparing with 57.1% in patients treated with hydroxychloroquine only, and 12.5% in the control group (p<0.001).”

Conclusion: Despite its small sample size our survey shows that hydroxychloroquine treatment is significantly associated with viral load reduction/disappearance in COVID-19 patients and its effect is reinforced by azithromycin.” Breaking news update on following pages.

The $20 Solution to COVID-19 authorised by FDA. 'Anecdotal Evidence' a Life-Saver

in The American Spectator by George Parry March 31, 2020.

Over the weekend, U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) issued an emergency authorization for the use of hydroxychloroquine (HCQ) and chloroquine (CQ) to treat hospitalized COVID-19 patients.

Even before the FDA's "emergency authorization," physicians have been free to make "off-label" (non-FDA approved) use of HCQ and CQ to treat COVID-19 patients.

Following clinical trials in China, South Korea, and France that demonstrated the efficacy of treating and likely preventing COVID-19 infections with HCQ alone or in combination with azithromycin, President Trump expressed to the media optimism about HCQ being a potential "game changer" in the fight to defeat the pandemic. But, at that same press briefing, Dr. Anthony Fauci seemed to throw cold water on Trump's enthusiasm. In answer to a reporter's question, Fauci stated that although there was "anecdotal evidence" that HCQ was effective in treating and preventing COVID-19 infections, controlled clinical trials of the drug were still necessary before any definite conclusions could be reached.

Since then, "anecdotal evidence" has become the mantra of the mainstream media, who have dismissed the use of HCQ and CQ as an unproven, speculative proposition.

But to the undoubted dismay of the media and all those who hope the pandemic will destroy Trump's presidency, that pesky "anecdotal evidence" supporting the use of HCQ and CQ to successfully treat and possibly prevent COVID-19 infections continues to grow at an exponential rate.

For example, in a follow-up of its previously reported study recommending the use of HCQ and azithromycin to treat COVID-19 cases, researchers in France and Vietnam under the leadership of world-renowned infectious disease expert Professor Didier Raoult, the head of the Institut Hospitalo-Universitaire (IHU) Méditerranée Infection in Marseille, have reported another clinical trial in which that drug combination cured 79 out of 80 patients. Noting that "adverse events were rare and minor," the researchers summarized their findings as follows:

In conclusion, we confirm the efficacy of hydroxychloroquine associated with azithromycin in the treatment of COVID-19 and its potential effectiveness in the early impairment of contagiousness. Given the urgent therapeutic need to manage this disease with effective and safe drugs and given the negligible cost of both hydroxychloroquine and azithromycin, we believe that other teams should urgently evaluate this therapeutic strategy both to avoid the spread of the disease and to treat patients before severe irreversible respiratory complications take hold.

As this report was issued, India's Ministry of Health and Family Welfare issued a directive declaring that

Whereas, the Central Government is satisfied that the drug 'Hydroxychloroquine' is essential to meet the requirements of emergency arising due to pandemic COVID-19 and in the public interest, it is necessary and expedient to regulate and restrict the sale and distribution of the drug "Hydroxychloroquine" ... (Emphasis added.)

Based on this finding, India has banned the export of HCQ and is recommending that health-care workers take HCQ prophylactically to avoid becoming infected while treating COVID-19 patients.

Similarly, Belgium and Bahrain are reporting that their hospitals are using HCQ to successfully treat COVID-19 patients. According to the Bahrain News Agency, the head of Bahrain's National Taskforce for Combatting COVID-19 reports that HCQ has had a "profound impact" when used to treat COVID-19 patients. And Belgium has established a "strategic reserve" of HCQ to treat as many as 22,000 COVID-19 patients on an "off-label" basis.

But far and away the widespread off-label use by physicians in the United States of HCQ alone or in combination with other FDA-approved drugs to successfully treat COVID-19 cases has produced the most stunning and powerful "anecdotal evidence." This has resulted in major hospitals such as Michigan's Henry Ford Hospital and the University of Michigan Hospital publishing COVID-19 treatment protocols that include the use of HCQ. This is happening across the nation, and physicians are using HCQ either alone or in combination with azithromycin to successfully treat COVID-19 patients.

Consider, for instance, the overwhelmingly positive patient outcomes that have been achieved by Dr. Vladmir (Zev) Zelenko, a New York physician.

By letter dated March 23, 2020, Dr. Zelenko reported to the Israel Ministry of Health that he and his team had used a combination of HCQ, azithromycin, and zinc to successfully treat 500 high-risk COVID-19 patients. He reported "ZERO deaths, ZERO hospitalizations, and ZERO intubations [ventilator uses]" and "no serious negative side effects" caused by the drug protocol.

In his letter, Dr. Zelenko wrote, "I would like to thank President Trump for approving Hydroxychloroquine for use against this virus." Here is Dr. Zelenko's letter:
