ISRAELI EVANGELIST JAKOB DAMKANI UNDERGOES DANGEROUS HEART SURGERY

PB - Kahila news - Jul 16, 2018

Israeli evangelist and pastor Jacob Damkani suffered a ruptured aorta three years ago followed by an eight-hour surgery and a long but miraculous recovery. He was thankful to be alive, as the event occurred while he was swimming in the Mediterranean Sea off the coast of Tel Aviv.

“Ninety-five percent of those who experience this medical emergency die from it,” he said. “God spared my life because I have not yet completed my mission.”

A year later doctors discovered a dangerous fungus growing on the blood vessel that had been implanted in place of his ruptured one. Since Damkani was feeling well, doctors decided to avoid the risky surgery and instead carry out a series of infusions to try and wipe out the fungus.

But during a checkup on Dec. 28 doctors discovered that the deadly fungus had returned. This was the same day that the film A New Spirit – a drama film about Damkani’s life – was released in Israeli theaters.

Jacob Damkani on the streets sharing the Good News of Yeshua

“We are fighting a very real spiritual battle; not just for Jacob’s physical health,” Damkani’s wife, Elisheva, told KNI.

Several weeks ago on July 2, 2018, Damkani wrote on his Facebook page that he and Elisheva had decided that he would go through with surgery. The surgeon had never performed such an operation before and was not sure it would be successful. According to Elisheva, Damkani was fully prepared for the surgery to go either way.

A week later he underwent the 11-hour surgery and has since remained in intensive care. None of the operating team believed he would survive.

“We simply kept praying to the One who created this precious man and dearly loves him. What else could we do?” Elisheva wrote.

On July 12, 2018, Damkani began to breathe on his own, although still with the help of a machine. The doctors have confirmed that his condition is improving, however he has been sedated since the operation.

“This type of surgery gets performed about once a year in the entire world,” Elisheva told KNI. “The doctors won’t say this directly, but people don’t usually make it. We don’t know how long Jacob’s recovery will take because there’s not much of a precedent.”

Elisheva asks for continued prayer as Damkani’s condition remains unstable.

Damkani, born and raised in Israel, came to faith as a young man while in the United States and then returned to Israel in the early 1980s with the mission of helping the Jewish people see their Messiah. The Damkanis’ ministry is Trumpet of Salvation. Two movies have been produced about Damkani: a documentary called The Messenger (2016) and A New Spirit (2017), based on his autobiography, Why Me?

ISRAELIS SEEK SHELTER DURING SHABBAT ROCKET BARRAGE IN THE SOUTH

Kehila News Israel Staff - Jul 15, 2018

Israelis in southern communities spent their Shabbat under siege as Hamas militants fired more than 170 mortar shells and rockets at Israel from early morning throughout the day.

Four Israelis were wounded when a rocket hit their home.

Throughout Shabbat, sirens sounded throughout communities in the South as more than 100 rockets landed in open fields, 30 were intercepted by Israel’s Iron Dome defense system and the rest fell in communities near the border. When the sirens go off, residents in the Gaza periphery have only 15 seconds to reach a shelter before impact.

Public places including beaches and pools were closed on Saturday, but facilities including summer camps were open as usual on Sunday and farmers allowed to return to their fields to work.

The rocket attacks, which started at 1:30 a.m. and lasted until evening, followed a day of protesting at the border fence between the Gaza Strip and Israel on Friday. The protests by Palestinians at the fence have been a weekly occurrence since March.

In response to the rockets on Saturday, the Israeli military attacked dozen of targets in Gaza including two tunnels, weapons stores and a combat training facility. It was Israel's largest bombing campaign in Gaza since the 2014 war, the military said. Two Palestinians killed during retaliatory air strikes by the Israeli military, however, most likely died in an "accidental blast" as they were making weapons, according to Palestinian police.

Hamas said the barrage of rockets and mortar shells was fired by the "resistance" to "stop Israeli escalation."

Egypt and other international organizations rushed to broker a ceasefire. One of Israel's main demands was the cessation of the kites and balloons, thousands of which have been flown over the border in the last few months, attached to incendiary devices that have caused damaging fires and destroyed tens of thousands of acres.

More fires were ignited by kites sent over the border on Sunday morning.

The attacks would likely continue, despite the ceasefire, in some form or another. United Nations Relief and Works Agency (UNRWA) media advisor Adnan Abu Hasna told Ynet News that the people of Gaza have nothing left to lose.

"There is no tomorrow in Gaza, it's a big prison, there are no dreams, there is no stability," he said. "Two million people, 50 percent unemployment, the private sector doesn't work."

The four Israelis injured on Saturday are all from one family and were home when a rocket landed near their home in Sderot.

"All of the glass in the living room fell on us. The aquarium, the TVs — everything exploded. The entire house was smoke and we were all covered in blood," said Aharon Buchris, the father of the family. "I was hit by shards in the face and legs. My wife and daughters were also hurt. I felt stress, shock, and I heard shouting."

A neighbor, Azzat Magirov, heard the rocket hit and ran next door to help.

"There was no Code Red siren. All of a sudden I heard a boom. I was on the couch and flew off it," she said. "All of a sudden I see smoke and hear shouting. My entire house was covered in (broken) glass, but I went straight there (to the neighbors). The Qassam rocket fell under the living room window. I saw smoke, I saw that everyone was bleeding."

"I'm okay, but in my heart I'm not. They're like my own children," she said.

Sderot Mayor Alon Davidi has long implored the Israeli government to take harsher measures against Hamas for traumatizing his city with a steady trickle — if not outright barrage — of rockets.

"Our feelings about the ceasefire are very difficult," Davidi said. "It is Hamas who decides whether to open fire or to cease fire and not the State of Israel."

TRUMP SAYS MEETING WITH PUTIN WAS ‘REALLY GOOD’ FOR ISRAEL

Times Of Israel staff 17 July 2018,

US President Donald Trump on Monday said his summit with Russian President Vladimir Putin Monday was good for Israel, seemingly referring to efforts to remove Iran-backed fighters from Syria’s Golan border.

Trump also said Putin was a strong supporter of Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu, but did not offer any specifics on what was discussed that related to Israel at the meeting in Helsinki, where Iran’s presence in Syria had been widely expected to be a main topic of conversation between the two world leaders. Trump said Putin was “a believer in Israel. “He’s a fan of Bibi,” he said, using Netanyahu’s nickname. “Really helping him a lot and will help him a lot, which is good for all of us.”

Netanyahu flew to Moscow last week to discuss Iranian entrenchment in Syria with Putin last week and on Saturday also spoke to Trump over the phone on the issue. Israel has been trying to rally Russia to support removing Iranian-backed militias as far as possible from the border region on the Golan Heights.

At a joint press conference with the Russian leader earlier, Trump said Moscow “would like to do certain things with Syria having to do with the safety of Israel... We absolutely would like to work in order to help Israel, and Israel will be working with us. So both countries work jointly [for this purpose].” Trump added that “creating safety for Israel is something both Putin and I would like to see very much.”

When terrorist forces are wiped out in south and west Syria, Putin said, “the situation on the Golan Heights must be restored to what it was after the 1974 agreement, which set out the terms for the disengagement of forces between Israel and Syria.”

In a statement following the press conference Monday, Netanyahu thanked the two leaders for their commitment to Israeli security. Also that Netanyahu “very much appreciates the security coordination between Israel and Russia and the clear position expressed by President Putin regarding the need to uphold the 1974 Separation of Forces Agreement between Israel and Syria.”

Leader: ³¹ "Here, the days are coming," says Y'HoVaH, "when I will make a new Covenant with the house of Isra'el and with the house of Y'hudah. ³² It will not be like the covenant I made with their fathers on the day I took them by their hand and brought them out of the land of Egypt; because they, for their part violated My Covenant, even though I, for my part, was a husband to them," says Y'HoVaH. ³³ "For this is the Covenant I will make with the house of Israel after those days," says Y'HoVaH, "I will put My Torah within them and write it on their hearts; I will be their Elohim, and they will be My people.
