BUSHFIRE SENSE

By Viv Forbes - Friday, 15 November

<https://blog.alor.org/index.php>

Australia is a land of deserts, droughts, floods, bushfires, flammable forests and fire-prone grasslands – these conditions have developed since the start of the Holocene Warm Era about twelve thousand years ago. All previous Australian bushies, both black and white, have recognised the key principle of fire management in Australia – you can have many small managed “cool” fires in early spring or a few unplanned disastrous “hot” fires consuming a heavy fuel load in hot dry winds in late spring. (Arsonists have other priorities and light their fires at these most dangerous times.) Every generation of Australians sees its fire disasters and the worst ones get names – “Black Thursday” in 1851, “Black Friday” in 1939, “Ash Wednesday” in 1983, and the worst to date “Black Saturday” in 2009. Not even an armada of expensive water bombers will stop these bushfires – at that stage fire can only be prevented or contained by fire.

Good fire management disappeared as rural voters were out-voted by the green leafy suburbs.

Urban greens thought we could prevent all fires and encourage wildlife by locking up more parks and encouraging fire-loving, oil-containing eucalypts and flammable weeds close to towns and dwellings. (Many native plants require fire to burst open their rock-hard seed pods.) Graham Lloyd of the Australian notes that even the Hippies of Nimbin blame greens for “the incendiary state of the Australian bush”. Even more stupid are those who think politicians can control or abolish droughts and bushfires by banning the use of coal and oil in a futile attempt to lower global temperature. The sun, the oceans and recurring El Nino droughts will dwarf all efforts of puny politicians. We need good fire and forest management and prosecution of arsonists, not costly climate distractions.

‘Pope Francis is Not A Man Of God’ | Putin

by Baxter Dmitry - August 7, 2017

President Putin has slammed Pope Francis for “pushing a political ideology instead of running a church”, and warned that the leader of the Catholic Church “is not a man of God.”

“Pope Francis is using his platform to push a dangerous far-left political ideology on vulnerable people around the world, people who trust him because of his position,” Putin said.

He dreams of a world government and a global communist system of repression.

“As we have seen before in communist states, this system is not compatible with Christianity.”

“If you look at what he (the Pope) says it’s clear that he is not a man of God. At least not the Christian God. Not the God of the Bible,” Putin said at the Naval Cathedral of St. Nicholas in Kronstadt.

“He dreams of a world government and a global communist system of repression.

“As we have seen before in communist states, this system is not compatible with Christianity.”

The pope has become increasingly brazen this year in pushing the globalist agenda and far-left talking points upon the masses. Earlier this year he called for a global central bank and financial authority, and more recently he said “Americans need to be ruled by a world government as soon as possible for their own good.”

Pope Francis’s idea that Americans would be better off under a world government doesn't stop there. The radical leftist pontiff also went on record stating that Europe should become one country under one government.

He is also on record calling for a China-style one child policy for Western nations, as well as telling a congregation in Rome that having a personal relationship with Jesus is "dangerous and harmful."

While Putin is a practicing Christian, he is not a Roman Catholic, and the pope is not his leader. According to his recent statements, President Putin does not even consider Pope Francis to be Christian.

The Russian president is rarely openly critical of foreign leaders, instead preferring to use diplomacy to win people over to his side. However notorious globalists including George Soros, Jacob Rothschild and Bill Gates have received tongue lashings before, and now Pope Francis has joined their company...

In 300 Words: What is Palestinian Islamic Jihad?

By Emanuel Miller Nov 13, 2019

Source: <https://tinyurl.com/r936eut>

Formed by Abd al-Aziz Awda and Fathi Shaqaq as a splinter group of the Muslim Brotherhood, Islamic Jihad was established in Egypt in '79.

In 1981, two years after he courageously made peace with Israel, Anwar Sadat was assassinated by the Egyptian branch of Islamic Jihad. Egypt subsequently expelled Palestinian Islamic Jihad members to Gaza, leading to the formal founding of Palestinian Islamic Jihad (PIJ), also known as the Islamic Jihad Movement in Palestine.

Considered a terrorist organization by dozens of countries around the world, PIJ's leadership is based in Damascus, Syria, and provided with millions of dollars in training, weapons, and direct funding by the Iranian government.

PIJ is less involved in politics than other terror groups, and its sole objective is the destruction of the State of Israel as the means of establishing a sovereign, Islamic Palestinian state.

PIJ's main operations are concentrated in Gaza, and to a lesser extent the West Bank and east Jerusalem. Since 1987, it has carried out countless suicide bombings, bus hijackings, and shooting attacks against Israelis.

Unlike Hamas, it generally doesn't provide any social or health services, and is not interested in diplomacy. Instead, it views violence against Israeli civilians and soldiers alike as the only option, and has launched thousands of rockets at Israel over the last two decades. PIJ has partnered with Hezbollah, another Iranian-funded terror organization, in carrying out joint operations.

Although PIJ works alongside Hamas, tensions exist as the organizations vie for support from the same population, and due to PIJ's more extreme position regarding Israel. Whereas Hamas is pragmatic and willing to agree to occasional ceasefires, PIJ views such concessions as unconscionable.

Iran has exploited this rivalry to compel Hamas into complying with Iranian policy when tensions arise. By funding PIJ and shifting Hamas social services in 2013 to PIJ's auspices, Tehran pressured Hamas to fall back in line with its policies.

THE COMING COLLAPSE OF NEW ZEALAND

By Bruce Bennett in www.alor.org

As a kiwi migrant to Oz, I am still sad to see New Zealand, transferred into a socialist cesspool, being unable to even feed its people. Wearing head coverings will not solve this crisis:

<https://tinyurl.com/rxfyg7k>

"New Zealand's government is coming under increasing political pressure to raise welfare payments, echoing a similar debate in Australia. The surging cost of living has exposed inequalities in New Zealand at a time when the local economy is doing well. Growth rates are well above Australia's and the OECD average. The Kiwi economy is close to full employment, with unemployment rates at an 11-year low of 3.9 per cent. Yet more are being left behind, with surging numbers of people sleeping rough and applying for hardship grants. Figures from the Ministry of Social Development reveal the dark side of New Zealand's have-and-have-not society. This winter, 29,000 emergency housing grants were made - doubling last year's tally - at a cost of NZ$41 million ($38 million)." This report rattled on, but the core issue is that half a million people are so poor that they cannot put food on the table. So how can the economy be doing fine? Fine for whom: the economic globalists who always do extremely well even in the heat of war, when whole societies are being fire-bombed? By contrast, the sole point of an economy, according to [Douglas'] Social Credit, is ability to provide goods and services to people; the economy exists to serve people, not the way it is now, people existing merely to serve as blood sacrifices to the global god of money 'Plutus', who according to Dante's Divine Comedy, is a wolf-like demon of wealth.
